Meeting Agenda

Group: Good People
Date:
Participants: Richard, Anton, Charles, Saga, Lo

Reports from previous meeting

We had a meeting with Gerdes, which went well and our question got answered. The feedback we got got us think about our domain model, it was too thin, the reason for us thinking differently was because of us thinking the model was gonna be more directed to code.

Another feedback we got was that our user stories were too big, and has to be splitted up in parts.

Objectives

Split our user stories into more parts.

Make our domain model more clear.

Make a new GUI sketch, because we have decided to make an android application.

Discussion and assignments

A lot of discussion about what makes the domain model clear for others. Is it to make some features abundant, or is it to make the domain model smaller. The result was to make it somewhat between the two.

Rewriting/adding to our user stories on trello. It's a bit of discussion on what is a good acceptance criteria. How do we test a button that changes view? Is it enough to just do it manually, or is it in need of more tests? Question for Gerdes.

It's decided that the user stories with a yellow label will be the first work during the first iteration.

We start the work on Definition of Done, and it's now on github.

Next meeting